

A New Chapter

We recently came together to honour the many years of service from our founder and Chairman, Andrew Lind. We are deeply grateful for Andrew's role in founding and building Corney & Lind and for his dedicated service and commitment to its staff and clients.

In moving forward, Andrew will remain employed full-time with Corney & Lind Lawyers as a Consultant. If you would like to read more about this leadership change, click here.

What is a Primary Carer in Family Law?

In some parenting matters, the court may need to assess who a child's primary carer is as this may assist the court in determining what parenting orders are to be made. For example, in determining what parenting orders are in the best interests of children, the court may need to first consider whether there should be an equal time arrangement.
